Actions Speak Louder Than Words

Riya was in Grade 4 and loved going to school. One day, her teacher, Mrs. Meera, gave the class homework—to complete a drawing of their favorite animal. “Please bring it tomorrow,” she said. Riya listened carefully, went home, and started working right after her snack. She chose to draw a puppy and coloured it neatly. The next day, she brought it to class. Mrs. Meera smiled and said, “Wonderful work, Riya!”

Some students had forgotten to do the homework. They looked sad. Mrs. Meera gently said, “When you obey your teacher, you learn more and feel happy.” Riya felt proud for listening and doing her best. From that day, many classmates started listening more carefully and following instructions just like Riya.

I. Answer the following questions:

1. What homework did Mrs. Meera give the class? (1)
