SECTION A: READING SKILLS (20 marks)

I. Read the passage and answer the questions. (1x10=10)

The solar system consists of the Sun and the objects that revolve around it, such as planets, moons, and asteroids. At the center of the solar system is the Sun, a giant ball of hot gases that provides light and heat to the planets. The eight planets are divided into two groups: the inner planets (Mercury, Venus, Earth, and Mars) are rocky and small, while the outer planets (Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune) are large and made up of gas. Each planet has its unique features and characteristics, with Earth being the only one known to support life. The Moon, Earth's natural satellite, plays a crucial role in stabilizing Earth's rotation and in creating tides. Other celestial bodies, like asteroids and comets, add to the diversity of the solar system.

The study of the solar system helps us understand not only the mechanics of how the planets orbit the Sun but also our place in the universe.

Answer the following questions:

A. Multiple Choice Questions: (1x5 = 5)

1. What is the main function of the Sun in the solar system?
 - a) To cool the planets
 - b) To provide light and heat
 - c) To create moon phases
 - d) To attract asteroids
2. Which of the following planets are part of the inner planets?
 - a) Earth, Jupiter, Venus, Mars
 - b) Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars
 - c) Saturn, Neptune, Uranus, Venus
 - d) Earth, Mars, Neptune, Uranus
3. What role does the Moon play in Earth's system?
 - a) It provides light to the Earth
 - b) It stabilizes Earth's rotation and creates tides
 - c) It influences the orbit of other planets
 - d) It helps the planets cool down
4. What is the main composition of the outer planets?
 - a) Rocky materials
 - b) Gas
 - c) Gas and ice
 - d) Metal and dust
5. Which of these is NOT a celestial body in the solar system?
 - a) Planets
 - b) Satellites
 - c) Stars
 - d) Asteroids

B. Short Answer Questions:(1x5 = 5)

1. Name the four inner planets of the solar system.
2. What is unique about Earth compared to the other planets?
3. How does the Moon help stabilize Earth's rotation?
4. What are asteroids and how do they contribute to the solar system?
5. Why is it important for scientists to study the solar system?

II. Read the passage and answer the questions.(1x10=10)

Pashmina shawls are a symbol of luxury and elegance, originating from the Kashmir region of India. The word "Pashmina" comes from the Persian word "Pashm," meaning wool. These shawls are made from the fine wool of the Pashmina goat, which is found in the high-altitude regions of the Himalayas. The goats are known for their soft, warm, and fine wool, which is collected by hand during the molting season.

The process of creating a Pashmina shawl is time-consuming and requires great skill. After the wool is collected, it is spun into yarn and dyed using natural dyes. The yarn is then woven into shawls using traditional handlooms. The craftsmanship involved in making a Pashmina shawl can take several months, depending on the complexity of the design. Many shawls feature intricate embroidery, which adds to their beauty and value.

Pashmina shawls have been highly valued for centuries, not just for their beauty, but for their warmth and comfort. They are lightweight yet incredibly warm, making them ideal for cold climates. Historically, they were worn by royalty and nobility and have remained a symbol of status and luxury. Today, Pashmina shawls are popular worldwide, both as a fashion statement and as a prized possession.

The production of Pashmina shawls also supports the local economy in Kashmir, providing livelihoods to many artisans. However, with modern machine-made fabrics, the demand for hand-woven Pashmina has decreased in recent years. Despite this, the tradition of crafting Pashmina shawls continues to thrive, with artisans using new techniques to adapt to contemporary fashion trends.

Answer the following questions:

1. What is the significance of the word "Pashmina" in relation to the shawl's material?
 - a) It refers to the traditional dye used in shawls
 - b) It refers to the Pashmina goat that produces the wool
 - c) It means "luxury" in Persian
 - d) It refers to the geographical location of the weaving process
2. How does the climate of the Himalayas contribute to the quality of Pashmina wool?
 - a) The cold temperatures increase the softness of the wool
 - b) The high altitude provides a rich source of nutrients for the goats
 - c) The high altitude results in thicker, warmer wool
 - d) The warm weather helps the wool grow longer
3. Why is the process of weaving a Pashmina shawl considered time-consuming?
 - a) The wool must be hand-washed before spinning
 - b) Only certain artisans are skilled enough to weave the fine wool
 - c) The intricate designs and embroidery require many months of labour
 - d) The wool must be woven continuously without any breaks

4. Which of the following statements best explains the cultural value of Pashmina shawls?
 - a) Pashmina shawls were initially used for practical purposes in everyday life
 - b) Pashmina shawls are considered symbols of social status and luxury
 - c) Pashmina shawls are mainly used by farmers in rural regions
 - d) The shawls are typically worn by children to keep warm in winter
5. How has modern technology influenced the production of Pashmina shawls?
 - a) It has led to the complete replacement of hand-woven techniques
 - b) It has resulted in a greater variety of colors and designs
 - c) Machine-made fabrics have reduced the demand for hand-woven Pashmina
 - d) Technology has made the process of weaving much faster
6. What role do natural dyes play in the creation of Pashmina shawls?
 - a) They are used to make the shawls more affordable
 - b) They contribute to the rich, organic color that adds value to the shawl
 - c) They prevent the wool from being damaged during the weaving process
 - d) They are used to create synthetic versions of Pashmina
7. Which of these factors contributes most to the exclusivity of Pashmina shawls?
 - a) The rarity of Pashmina goats and the labour-intensive weaving process
 - b) The machine-made versions that are sold in bulk
 - c) The inexpensive dyes and simple designs used
 - d) The mass production of shawls in factories
8. What impact has the decrease in demand for hand-woven Pashmina had on local artisans in Kashmir?
 - a) It has led to an increase in wages for artisans
 - b) It has made it harder for artisans to find work and support their families
 - c) It has resulted in the closure of factories
 - d) It has encouraged artisans to create machine-made shawls
9. In addition to being used as a luxury item, what other significant role do Pashmina shawls play in the Kashmiri economy?
 - a) They serve as a primary agricultural export for the region
 - b) They provide an important source of income for many artisans
 - c) They are sold mainly in domestic markets with little global demand
 - d) They are used to promote tourism in Kashmir
10. What does the mention of "intricate embroidery" in the passage suggest about the value of Pashmina shawls?
 - a) Embroidery is a modern addition to Pashmina shawls to make them less expensive
 - b) The shawls are usually embroidered by machines rather than by hand
 - c) The fine embroidery adds to the artistic and cultural value of the shawls
 - d) Embroidery is not typically a feature of traditional Pashmina shawls
